he unique qualities of the students and faculty at SHS are intertwined into a picture perfect portrait of the masterpieces we are. We enter as an empty paint canvas without color, a clump of clay that has not yet been sculpted, or an idea that has not yet been composed. Day by day we are brought to life. Year by year color is added to the picture, the clay begins to take shape, and the idea starts to develop. Each form begins to reflect its own identity and personality. Every person is becoming an individual work of art. Through time spent at SHS our picture is finally completed. The clump of clay is now a beautiful sculpture and the idea, a story. The intricate work of each individual has produced a masterpiece that represents all of us.

Newcomer Randy Garneau and freshman Becky Kusek choose a dessert, while Tammy Donahue, Penny Boyer and Mrs. Staffieri select their main courses.

Inset: Tim Bachand, Ed Galonek, Kyriakos Konstantakis, and Gary Peck show off their football hardos to newly appointed physical educator, Dr. Hoogasian.

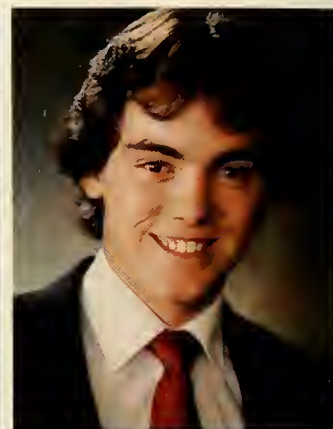

People

An empty paint canvas sits in the corner of a room. Strokes from the master's brush begin to create an image. In this masterpiece he is painting we start to see a little bit of each of us.

Need we say more, for a picture paints a thousand words.

Juniors Speak Out

If you could say anything you wanted, to anyone you wanted, what would you say, and who would you say it to?

"I would say thank you to the town of Southbridge and all of its students for allowing me to be a part of them."

— Jasmine Ramos

"Arnold Schwarzenegger — you're not so big!"

— John Arns

"Mr. Thomas, you look mahvalous, absolutely marvelous!"

— Lisa Thibert

"I'd tell President Reagan that jellybeans are gross, just like his policies with Iran."

— Lauren Kosinski

"We would like to tell Todd and Chris that we love them. (50 points a piece)"

— Christina and Kelley

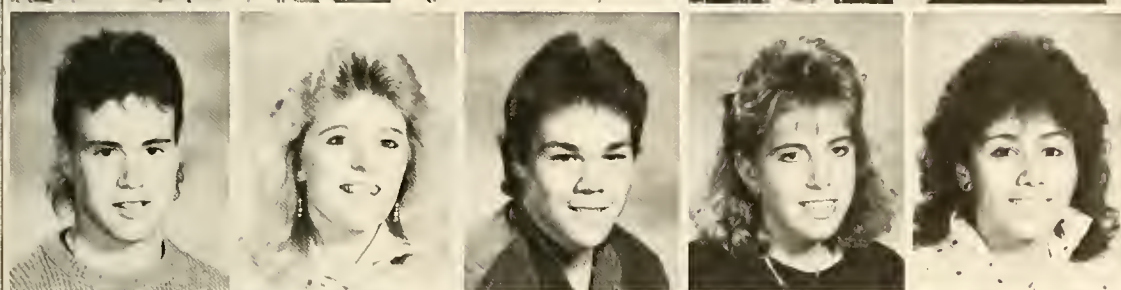

Kryiakas Kanstantakis tries to think of what he would like to say.

On A Paper Chase

Sophomore composition — We remember it well. The first real research paper complete with footnotes and bibliography — WOW!

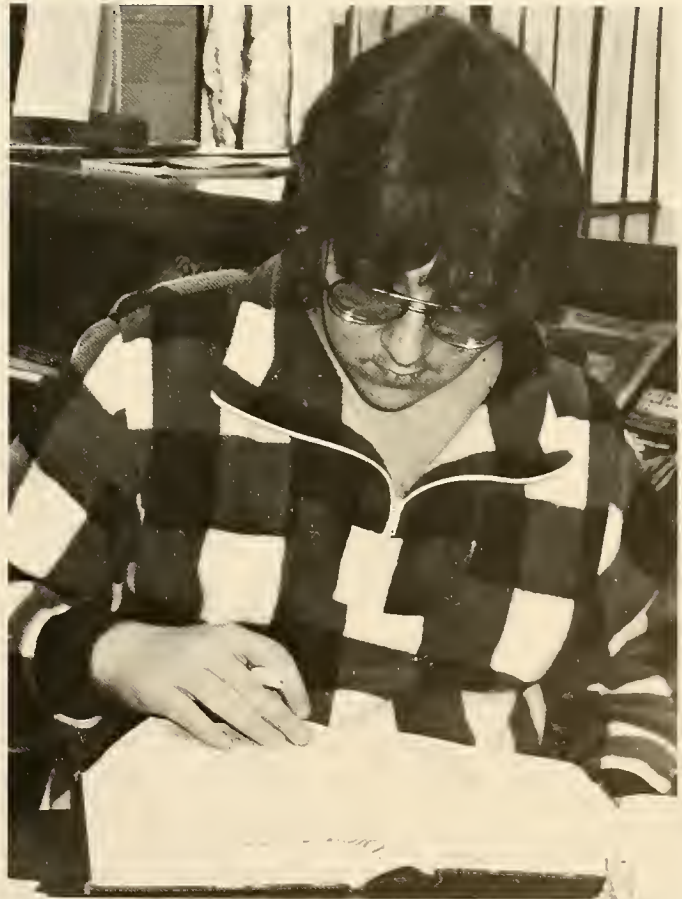

It began one gray morning during the semester, the teacher announced that a paper would be due — "When? In six weeks? No problem!"

Relief was felt by all of us. We could obtain legitimate passes from our teachers to visit the library during studies. This project was looking better already!

The working bibliography was quickly written. It seemed foolish to waste index cards for sources but sometimes you have to humor the teacher. Outlines weren't too difficult either. Who says there has to be a "B" if you have an "A"?

Somehow we made it. The paper was turned in on time. Footnotes and bibliography seemed to make sense. We tried not to plagiarize and hoped that we hadn't made too many typographical errors. The grade was important, but the sense of accomplishments meant more. One more milestone had been surmounted.

If you could have any Christmas present in the world, what would it be?

"I would like to be best friends again with someone who means so much to me."

Freshmen Speak Out

What is the most embarrassing thing that has ever happened to you?

"My pants broke in school and I couldn't go home, so I had to walk with a jacket around me."

"I fell in front of the seniors."

"I had to run around Dresser St. with my shorts down to my knees."

"My boy friend went to kiss me and I sneezed."

"The first day of Gym I opened the boy's locker room door because I thought it was the door to the hall."

"My birthday when my friends decorated my locker and sang."

"Talking to someone that wasn't the person I thought it was."

"When a girl walked into the boy's room while I was going to the bathroom."

(Names were withheld to protect the innocent.)

Freshmen Speak Out

If you could change one thing about yourself, what would it be?

"I guess not being so shy! Sometimes it stops me from meeting guys."

"I would change my hair because I don't like the color of it."

"I would change my complexion and take off all my zits."

"My glasses because I hate them."

"My eyes — I would like them to be purple because I love purple."

"My teeth because I have an overbite."

"I'd change the size of my feet because they are size 10 and too big."

"I will change my attitude because I don't study enough."

They're Back

Those gremlins that crowded the halls last year as 8th graders have returned this time as bona fide SHS students.

The adjustment to high school life was not as difficult for the Class of 1990 as it usually is for incoming freshmen. Due to the Wells Jr. High renovation, this class spent a year within the school. It was that period of time that was so difficult.

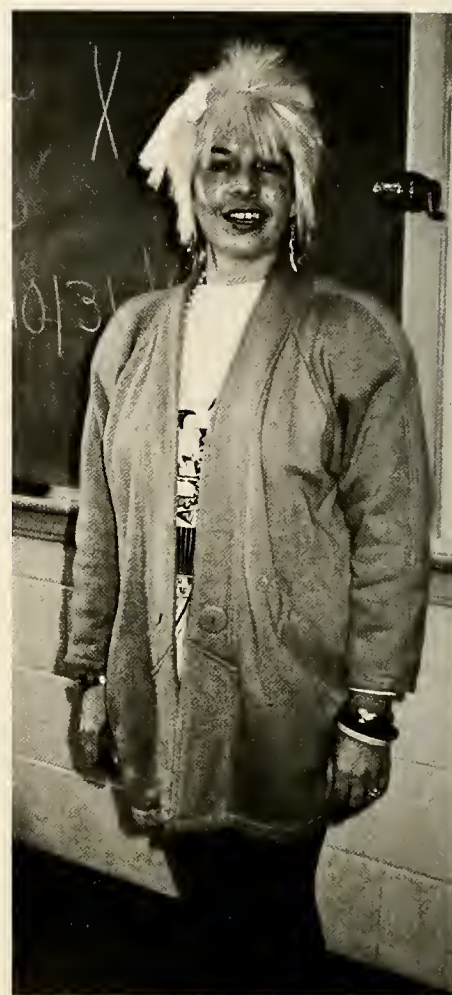

"We were put here and should have been put in with the others. We were the lowest of the low and we were always being picked on," bemoaned Brian Skonieczny.

The greatest fear in September was initiation. Having lived through that rite of passage, freshmen faced other tasks. Stephen Cournoyer mentioned the rotating schedule as the hardest especially "the lunch periods which were really confusing."

In considering the good and bad sides of these two years all ninth graders would probably echo the words of Brian Skonieczny who remarked that being a freshman is far better than being an eighth grader "... because instead of being underneath the bottom of the pile, we're only on the bottom!"

SAT's, At What Price?

It seems that there is only one thing on the minds of the juniors and seniors H S, and it isn't what you would expect. What is going through everyone's mind, or at least the minds of the college bound students, is the Scholastic Aptitude Test and the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test.

The SAT's and PSAT's seem to affect most, of the upperclassmen. Just how important are these tests, and how much preparation should go into the test taking?

Well, at SHS there is a lot of emphasis placed upon the SAT. So much, in fact, that two courses have been offered to ensure that students are fully prepared to take this crucial test.

The first class is titled "SAT VERBAL" and is taught jointly within the school's English curriculum by Mrs. Janet Poirier and Miss Nancy Swiacki. It deals with the verbal portion of the SAT.

There is no Math course offered that deals only with the SAT's, so one teacher decided to do something about it. Dr. Mary Cashmon offers her own Math course in preparation for the SAT's every Wednesday after school, free of charge.

When asked if it were worth one afternoon a week to participate in this program, one student replied, "I'll do anything to raise my SAT scores."

We can take that as a yes.

Is There a Doctor in the Gym?

Dr. Hoogasian — the athlete, the scholar. This man for fourteen years has been improving his life, as well as the lives of those he teaches. He tries, in his work, to instill his own philosophy in everyone.

"Have something to shoot for. I've always said, 'Set your goals high and set your steps to attain them. Always finish what you start.'"

These words are not only spoken, but are a part of the man's lifestyle. In college he reigned for two years as the New England Collegiate pole vault champion. This past year he achieved a silver medal in the open pole vault in the Bay State Games. In New England's oldest open competition, he received the New England Track Athletics Congress Pole Vault Gold Medal for 1986. This year he also received a Doctoral Degree in Educational Administration.

"It's a vehicle for furthering myself in other school systems. If an opportunity arises, I'll go after it."

For the present, he has left the science classroom and entered the realm of physical education. A doctor in the gym?

"Athletes are usually given the 'dumb jock' image. There should be a balance between academic and physical. We should engage in both."

It seems that it is in the gym that Dr. Hoogasian has found fulfillment.

"It's been my most rewarding experience. I'm very happy with what I do here. The boys come eager and enthusiastic. Everybody likes to take gym. Teaching gym reflects my lifestyle: physical fitness and academics."

Dr. Hoogasian is an example of achievement. He has achieved success in both athletics and academics. He is living proof that by setting one's goals high, anything is possible.

Sports

The master continues his work. Another aspect of the portrait takes form. The person becomes more real, more alive. The master picks up his brush and the play begins . . .

Getting Psyched Up

Rallies provide the fans and players with inspiration and school spirit. As you enter the gym, you can hear the echoes of students shouting 87, 88, 89, and 90.

The first rally helps the freshmen make a breakthrough. When upper-classmen talk about rallies, freshmen have no real concept as to the amount of work put into them.

Sophomores have adjusted and begun to develop ideas for the years to come. They learn to prepare ahead of time in hopes of taking 1st place in skit and poster competition.

By junior year, the time and effort is well known. This year's juniors were lucky enough to have had Craig Boisvert who was crowned Ms. Turkey freshmen year. This gave them a basis for their Thanksgiving Day skit. This year the seniors will graduate with a final victory. This made them realize that if a class works together, they can emerge winners!

For the past 67 years there has been rivalry between the Southbridge Pioneers and the Bartlett Indians. Some years Southbridge has come out victorious, and some years the Indians have been the victors. Unfortunately, on this Thanksgiving Day in 1987, Bartlett squeaked by in the last 3 minutes to rally to a win.

For SHS, it was an agonizing defeat. The Pioneers entered the game with a respectable overall record of 5-5, 3-1 in the conference. After the first half, it seemed certain to Southbridge fans that the Pioneers would win. But luck was with the Indians, and the Pioneers just couldn't seem to click. With the loss of Marty Anderson in the 3rd quarter, Southbridge seemed to lose their momentum. From then on, it was Bartlett's game.

The Pioneers kept in the game and gave fans a performance to be proud of. John Marino and Tim Bachand were chosen as all-stars from the game.

Psyching Up For the Season

Where would a team be without its cheerleaders? Led by Captains Amy McKinstry and Sandra Lanctot, the SHS Cheerleaders began this year by winning first place in the Cheerleading competition at Bridgewater State College. Under the guidance of first year coach Sylvia Tashjian, the squad, much like the football team, started their practice routine during the early summer.

Where would cheerleaders be without their football team? Obviously, rigorous summer practices paid off for both the varsity and junior varsity teams. Second year coach Jeff Theodoss has instilled in his players a winning attitude which shows on the field.

Together the cheerleaders and the football players have given the Pioneer fans PRIDE!

Playing the Field

This year's varsity field hockey team had an exceptionally outstanding season. The squad ended up with an overall record of seven wins, three losses, and four ties. It was unification and sportsmanship that helped qualify them for the districts, and although they were eliminated in the first game of District play, they gave Southbridge High something to be proud of.

The SHS junior varsity field hockey squad did not fare as well as the varsity team, however, they did show a valiant effort as a team made up of mostly beginners. Under the leadership of first year coach Jeanine Lambert, the players learned the fundamentals of the sport, and are looking forward to a promising season next year.

Getting Their Kicks

On October 10, 1986 the SHS soccer team prepared physically and mentally for their shot at defeating the Auburn Dandies. Auburn, being the big rival at the time, came to West Street Field ready to dominate the Pioneers for the last time during the season.

Southbridge came out strong in the first half with Co-Captain Davone Ketnouvong, Viengkeo Savankham, and Chris Gask playing a solid offense. While in the backfield Southbridge's goalie, Jose Sanchez shut out the Auburn offense for the last time.

Though the game ended in a 0-0 tie Southbridge was able to leave feeling victorious knowing Auburn would return home in awe.

Another highlight of the team's 6-4-5 season was first year goalie, Jose Sanchez being placed as one of the number one goalies on the Border Conference Team, along with center halfback Davone Ketnouvong.

Coach Walter Gask summed up the season appropriately, "Losing 4 out of 15 games wasn't discouraging for our team. The underclassmen, next year, should be able to carry the team into a Border Conference spot."

Coach Ronald Giavanella, Team Captain Ran Chernisky, Dana Dupuis, Gerhardt Marcinkowski, Sam Ganzalez, and Santina Tiberii.

The Cross Country team started out the new season with a vote of confidence given to them by first year coach, Ronald Giovanello with his assistance, the team, once again continued to build.

Unfortunately, 1986 was a year that S.H.S. Cross Country was plagued by injuries, absences, and league technicalities.

Although they did not have a winning season, the outlook for next year is very hopeful. The team is expected to improve with incoming freshmen and the six returning veterans.

Football — A Sport For Males Only?

It's the fourth down, three yards to go. The ball is snapped and passed to a receiver. He catches it, then takes off. The defense charges after him. Wait! It's not a him; it's a her! What do we do now? Kick her off the field?

Thus, the question remains, does a girl have what it takes to be a football player? Ronnie Splaine believes, "Girls can't take the abuse that men can, so they shouldn't be playing football!"

The majority of the girls polled said they would be able to handle themselves on the field. "We should have the right to play football, but I don't think I could take getting tackled by a 300lb. guy," expressed Erica Kantorski.

Adam Hmielowski had a different idea. "Being on a football team you have to trust every person on that team to fulfill his duties, and to do this, physical strength is a necessity. I'd consider anyone a minus that couldn't handle themselves on the field, and since the law of nature dictates that men are predominantly stronger than women she would get blown off the field every play."

Tim George said that he wouldn't mind having a girl on the team, "as long as she could prove herself." One football player revealed, "When I first started playing football, I went up against a girl and hurt her, and was penalized."

Could girls be an asset to a sport that has been "all males", since who knows when? Should women stick to cooking and needlepoint instead of football? The decision is up to you!

— Kristen Clapp

A Big Price To Pay

Long hours of practice, bloodsweat, bruises and battered bones! Is it worth it? Goals, Touch-downs, victories, districts! How much does all of this mean to SHS athletes?

"A lot," said sophomore football player Aaron Poirier. "Hardwork, dedication and time are worth the feelings you get by playing."

A definite sense of satisfaction is generated when the grueling hours of practice finally pay off.

Unfortunately, most teams don't win every game. There are ups and downs to every sport.

"Winning, Districts, feelings of accomplishment, losing, practice, no time for yourself," are some highs and lows according to sophomore Nikki Arsennault.

Most of these feelings follow the athletes off the field.

"Responsibilities, accomplishments, and mistakes," are the feelings that stick with Aaron Poirier long after the football game has ended.

"Sports take up a lot of time. They drain a lot of energy from you. You sometimes have to stay up late at night to finish your homework," explained Nikki Arsennault.

Obviously, all of the sacrifices are worth it. SHS athletes are willing to dedicate themselves to their sport and they try to represent the school in a positive way. Some would like to continue sports into college, while others play just because they like the sport. Whatever their reasons for playing, sports seem to be important to all players.

— Michelle Livernois

It's Way Past Your Bedtime

At least twenty SHS students are standing around Hospital Spa on South Street. Someone looks at the clock. "Oh, it's already 9:15. Don't you think you should start heading home now?" Everyone laughs at the sarcastic remarks as a few football players walk away, scuffing their feet.

Everyone agrees curfews for football are important. Sophomore football players Adam Hmielowski and Rico Giovanello both replied, "Curfews are much needed."

Aaron Poirier tells us why. "It could mean playing or not the next day. Getting rest really helps during the game."

A lot of people wonder how the coaches know if you stay out later. Sophomore Aaron Poirier decided that he'd answer this one. "They call your house and you have to speak to them."

Adam Hmielowski added, "word of mouth will also get you in trouble."

With all this in mind, you may be curious to know if the team thinks the sport is worth going in early for, or if they regret playing because of the curfew. Once again, Adam Hmielowski had the words that spoke for everyone, "Definitely, we work very hard and it would be foolish to jeopardize playing a game."

Theodoss Gets 100th Win

On January 6, 1987 Coach Jeff Theodoss won the 100th game of his career as the Varsity Grils defeated North Brookfield 53-37.

The Pioneers dominated from the beginning by jumping to a quick 10-4 lead, with Lisa Ayotte providing 8 points. In the second quarter the Indians closed the gap, tying the score at 13, Southbridge then ran off with 17 unanswered points. Melissa Rapo led this surge with 13 points. Nicole LaBarge paced Pioneer rebounding by pulling down 8 rebounds to go with Lisa Ayotte's 7.

The Pioneers raised their lead to 22 points in the third quarter allowing them to coast home with a victory. Melissa Rapo had a game high of 22 points along with Lisa Ayotte's 13.

The Varsity, after having lost 3 of last year's starters, have had an outstanding season. In the Becker Tournament, Southbridge defeated Madson Park 42-21. Lisa Ayotte and Jennifer Ferron paced this offensive attack with 10 and 8 points. That victory qualified the girls for the finals, their opponent, Shepherd Hill, happened to be their biggest rival in the Border Conference. Southbridge took a 12-9 lead midway through the second quarter but the Rams ran off 12 straight points. The Pioneers kept creeping closer, but time ran out before they could attempt the tying shot. Southbridge lost 37-35.

We Belong to a World That Must Be Strong

As the J.V. game comes to an end, the anxiety of the fans can be felt while the song "Dreams" echoes throughout the gym. The Varsity Basketball team, led by Vin Marino enters and starts their pre-game warm-ups. It is in these preliminary moments that the attitude of the team can be perceived.

Practice makes perfect, doesn't it? Most players spend approximately 15 hours each week practicing. They have to sacrifice jobs and time with their friends and girlfriends. These practices, consisting of agility drills, foul shooting, lay-ups, conditioning, jump shots, and offensive/defensive plays, take place 5 days a week.

Time commitment doesn't stop here. Most players play Summer Basketball and in their free time, anywhere from 2-10 hours may be spent playing basketball during the off-season. Kenny Amioti said, "I like to play as much as I possibly can year round."

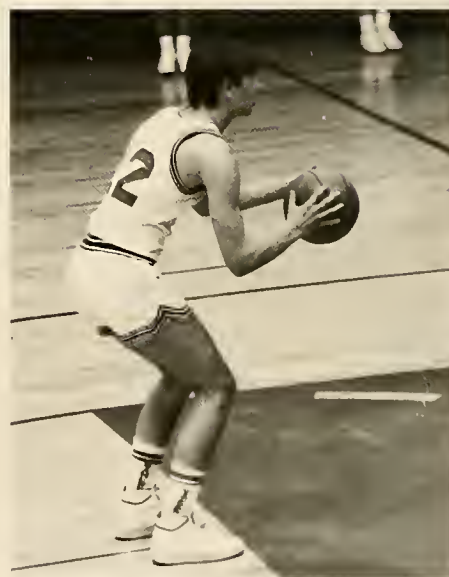

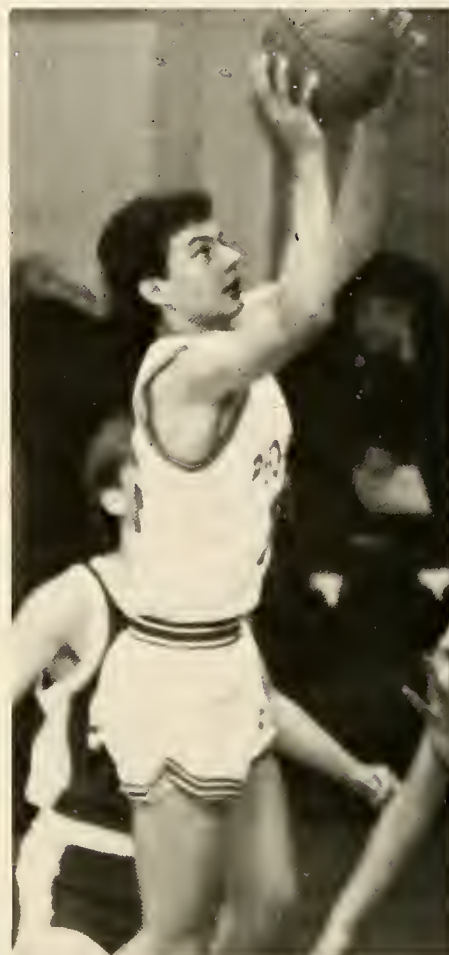

All players have different methods for psyching themselves up when it comes to game time.

Randy Garneau said, "I like to sit in silent prayer with no disturbances."

While on the other hand, Chris Gosk said, "I listen to music and read letters from a former coach."

Most players feel basketball is a very important part of their lives. This is shown through their determination and commitment to the team. They feel that they must always play to the best of their ability and give 100% to their team. It is important for all players to make all games and practices, have a positive attitude, and uphold sportsmanship. This team unity leads the players to give each other moral support both on and off the court.

The continuation of a basketball career is pondered on by many of the players. With their talent, dreams for the future, and determination, they will surely succeed.

How do you feel the song "Dreams" represents your team?

"Because we are always striving to improve and reach the sky."

— John Morino

"Dreams is an inspirational song that motivates our team to reach higher and higher to achieve our goals."

— Chris Gosk

"Our team has dreams that we strive to achieve."

— Horry Theodoss

"Last year seemed like a dream because we weren't supposed to be good and we proved everyone wrong. Hopefully our dreams will continue and we will be an even better team than last year."

— Todd Berry

"We all have dreams and we work to fulfill them. Dreams represent our team because it psyches us up for the game that lies ahead of us."

— Kenny Amriott

That's What Dreams Are Made Of

Sparks For The Future

The determination of a basketball player can be seen as early as Freshman year. With such a large turnout of future Varsity players this year, a Freshman Basketball team was reinstalled.

Kevin Berthiaume and Michael Bousquet by showing their skill and effort, already have a seat on the Junior Varsity bench this year.

These Freshman players strive to improve each day, hoping to catch the eye of the J.V. or Varsity coach.

The J.V. team this year, was sparked by the playing of transfer and foreign students. Randall Garneau and Ken Curtis, both transfer students, have been an asset on the boards by averaging 8 rebounds a game.

Freshman Ken Amriott, has been deadly from underneath, picking up offensive rebounds and tossing them up and in for two points. Stavre Vesovski from Yugoslavia, has been improving daily, and is also looking forward to playing Varsity next year. His height gave the team the opportunity to diversify their playing methods.

Activities

The finishing lines have been brushed on the canvas. Has the master completed his work? Many more strokes must be added. Each moment adds to the creation. The masterpiece begins to live, to breathe, to become. The foundation has been painted, and the metamorphosis can be viewed.

Student Council President, Julie Morrill, awaits Joe Emery, her next victim.

Thank You!

On October 17, more than 60 SHS students and faculty donated blood. This bi-annual event was held as a sign of support to their injured classmates.

On September 4, seniors Maureen Doyle and Jennifer Gagnon, junior Alyssa Ricci and freshmen Barbara Doyle were seriously injured in an automobile accident which claimed the life of Melissa Lavallee.

The injured had been given blood from the community supply and this year's blood drive was sponsored in an attempt to replenish it.

The overwhelming turnout was a result of the altruistic spirit of the students. Many individuals who would normally be afraid to participate were given courage by their desire to have, as Principal Joseph P. Bialy said, "... something positive come out of the tragedy."

Along with the students, a show of support was demonstrated by faculty and adults from the community. As one student stated, "Maybe we had no control over what has happened, but maybe we can do something to help others in the future."

Aaron Benoit watches Jasmine Ramos, who is patiently awaiting the needle.

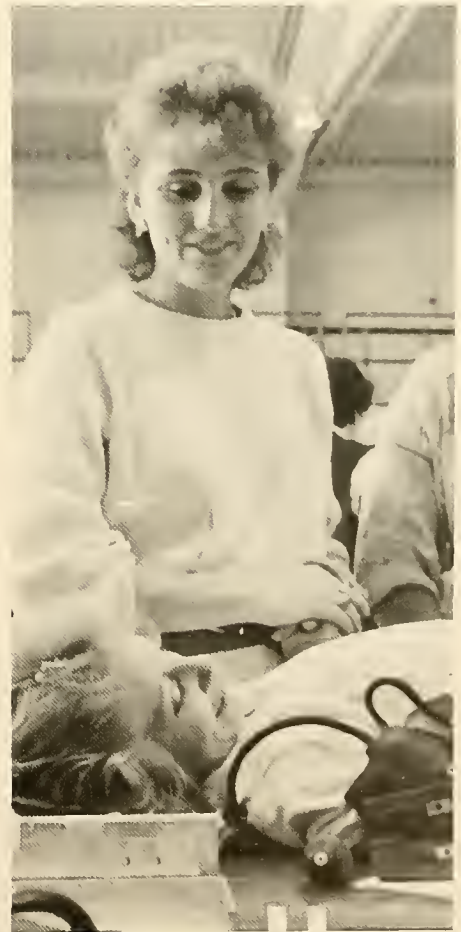

"We gave blood; See what it did to us!" quipped Chris Pairier, Al Thomas, and Dave Lenti.

Sarah Bayer and Danny Carragher are next in the blood line.

Adrian Alvarada and Abraham Arvela wonder why you were afraid to give blood.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The SHS Student Council is an organization that has again continued its tradition of excellence in giving the students more diverse activities during the school year.

According to the council's constitution its main purpose is to give "the entire student body a higher voice in the planning and operation of the activities among the students, faculty and administration." To these purposes they dedicate themselves and their energies.

The council consists of 26 members; 7 Seniors, 6 Juniors, 5 Sophomores, and 4 Freshmen. The four class presidents make-up the remainder, with the possibility of 5 members-at-large being "voted in" during the school year.

Although many responsibilities of the council are taken for granted: morning announcements, various fundraising activities, the blood drive and the organization of new committees and activities, a few are greatly appreciated by the school population; presentations by Camel, the slave auction, and depending on the year, spring day or winter carnival.

The popularity of the Student Council can be accounted for because of the fact that it provides control, direction and involvement for the students of Southbridge High School.

Fundraisers Raise Questions

If it is the minority of students participating in the fundraisers, should all the students share in the same benefits? "More people should participate to make the class successful," commented Kara Kokoszka, Vice-President of the sophomore class. Approximately one third of the sophomores participated in this year's magazine drive.

Prizes seem to be one incentive that persuades some students to sell. "A wide variety of prizes is best because it will interest the most people," remarked sophomore John Shaw. The Gumby T-shirts and the free record or cassette encouraged sophomores to sell their quota.

Perhaps extra benefits could be given to those students who do participate. Maybe credit should be given to be used towards class dues or class trips.

Gary Hackett emphasizes that all students, if possible, should make an effort to support their class's functions by helping to bring in proceeds. "A small percentage of the class does not make up the class and a small percentage cannot support it," he remarked.

IT WAS A GREAT HONOR

On December 15th, 22 juniors and 3 seniors were inducted into the SHS National Honor Society. The ceremony was long awaited, seeing as it had been postponed on three occasions prior to December 15th.

Inductees were chosen on the basis of leadership, character, academics, and service. An essay was required from each candidate before they were even considered for admittance.

President Christopher Proulx addressed faculty, parents, and new inductees with a salutary speech. This was followed by four additional speeches that dealt with the standards that must be upheld by all members.

Guest speaker Paul Pizella spoke on behalf of Governor Dukakis to extend congratulations to both old and new members.

After the ceremony inductees and their proud families enjoyed refreshments in the Media Center.

SINGING PRAISES

1986 has been a tremendous year for the Southbridge High Choral Department. Special acknowledgement has been given to some members individually, in addition to the group as a whole.

In the Central District competition, Danny Carragher, Bruce Earnest, Gary Peck, and Kim Sczypien were selected to participate in the House Quartet. Other SHS students were chosen to be in the Central District Festival. This year's participants were, in addition to SHS' House Quartet, Maria DiGiovanni, Darryl Lafleche, Scott Peck, and Chris Diani.

Individual merit was given to Danny Carragher in selection for the All-Eastern Seaboard chorus, and Bruce Earnest for his solo audition for the All-New England Festival.

The entire select and show choir has also been accepted to compete in the Festival of Music at Virginia Beach this May.

Maria DiGiovanni, Andrea Lamarine, Kim Sczypien, and Deidre Flanagan practice a song.

It's a Small World

The American International Youth Student Exchange Program (AIYSEP) has placed two students at SHS through Ms. Jowett, the director of the East Coast Chapter.

Margarita Fernandez is an eighteen year old senior from Madrid, Spain. She spends most of her evenings at the YMCA. On Saturdays, she helps out with concessions at football games. Margarita is involved in as many school activities.

Jean-Philipp Sainer is a senior from Kreesbronn A.B. German. He is in the band and is learning to play the guitar and saxophone.

Philipp has found that he dislikes the food. He feels the school system offers him a good education at the right price. Upon his arrival to the United States, Philipp experienced culture shock, but said, "As an exchange student, you learn how to make mistakes, and how to correct them." Philipp dreams of travelling around the United States.

In exchange for these students, we are sending two students to other countries.

Paula Couture is being hosted by Les Docteurs Rogues, pediatricians in Valencia, Spain. She has made new American and Spanish friends which makes the motto of AIYSEP, "Unity Throughout the World," stand true.

Jodi Zalneraitis is leaving in February to study in Australia for a year. When Jodi arrives, she will be hosted by a family that lives off the coast of Australia, on the Island of Tasmania.

Ms. Jowett feels the interest in the hosting of foreign students has increased because parents want to expand their children's horizons and teach them that there really is a global world out there.

Ms. Linda Jowett poses with her new-found foreign friends.

In Memory Of.

Melissa A. Lavallee

November 11, 1970-September 4, 1986

On September 4, 1986 we experienced a tragedy which took the life of one of our classmates. Melissa was a student, an athlete, a friend. She touched each one of us in her own way. Her death brought with it a personal message which each will carry forever. She lives within our books, our minds, our hearts. She will always remain as she was.

"Ballerina, you must have seen her,
dancin' in the sand.
And now she's in me, always with me,
Tiny dancer in my hand."

— Elton John

"The three of us shared everything together. In spite of the disagreements we sometimes had, the fun times made the bad seem minor."

"Missy was taken from us unexpectedly, but at least we have the memories of her to carry with us. If we could see her just one more time, we would tell her how much she means to us."

"We miss you, Missy, and we'll never forget you. We love you!"

— Maureen Doyle and Alyssa Ricci

"Oh, don't sorrow,
no, don't weep,
for tonight, at last,
I am coming home."

May your road of life be paved with joy and success.

May the obstacles you encounter cause you to excel in your endeavors.

May you understand that by giving of yourself, you receive the reward which is life.

You take with you our hope that through you the world will be a better place for all.

Good Luck!

A Winter Wonderland

The bi-annual Winter Carnival was held in February. Competition among the classes reached a pinnacle during the week long events. The highlight of the week was "The Gong Show," which featured a celebrity panel of faculty members. Participation by members of all classes at SHS was the determining factor in the success of the carnival and all of its activities.

Singing Into Spring

Dedication and hard work define the Show Choir. The group is composed of students who were selected after rigorous auditions. During the school year they perform for a variety of audiences.

In May, a trip to Virginia Beach was a highlight. The Virginia Beach Festival of Music attracted 3,500 students who competed. Trophies for superior and excellent performance were awarded to the SHS participants. At the spring concert this year, a variety of classical music was performed by outstanding juniors and seniors from the area.

Physics in Motion

Traditional and innovative vehicles were designed by members of Dr. Mary Cashmon's physic class. Combining their knowledge of physics with their creativity, students were challenged to propel their vehicle forward in a competition to decide which would travel the furthest distance. Motors, balloons, and elastic bands were among the techniques used as propellants.

Overall, the experiment was a success. All who were involved were pleased with the project.

Weather or Not?

This 1987 spring season came in with a wimper and out with a bang! The start of the season was a series of rainy afternoons and rescheduled games. After a few weeks, the season was finally underway. Due to the delay of the season, some teams were playing up to five games a week. Pioneer pride was rising and there were many teams in contention for the Districts. The Varsity softball team started the season strongly with an 8-0 win over Woodstock Academy. They lost their District bid to Tantasqua in a heartbreaking game. The Varsity baseball team started the season with a string of losses, but ended the season strongly with big wins over North Brookfield and Tantasqua. The tennis teams, as well as the J.V. softball and baseball teams experienced a rebuilding year. A Border Conference banner was won by the golf team, who was knocked out of District play in the first round.

A Golden Gala Event

While glasses were raised for a welcoming toast made by junior class president, Amy McKinstry, debutantes bared their legs to be adorned with golden garters by their escorts.

As the evening progressed, couples danced the night away to the music of "Horizons," in the ballroom of Mechanic's Hall. At the crest of the evening, the senior procession took place and the court was chosen. The court then enjoyed a dance with their dates to the prom's theme song, "Friends and Lovers."

At midnight, it was time to go home. Couples took each other by the hand and left the 1987 prom with their wine glasses in hand and smiles on their faces.

A Time To Remember

On Class Day, the seniors marched into the auditorium and all rose to honor the twenty-sixth graduating class of SHS. As the procession moved onward, encouraging smiles were exchanged by seniors and there was an air of joy and sadness felt by all. A presentation of athletic and academic awards was to follow. It was evident that the Class of 1987 had united in their final year at SHS. Members of the class reminisced about their high school experiences. The class will and prophecy were read. The ceremony served as an inspiration to all who attended.

Graduation was held on the following Sunday. Although the sky was overcast, the spirits of families and friends were not dampened. The Reverend Guy M. Judkins delivered the invocation and benediction. Salutatorian, Dina Pettinella and Valedictorian, Karen Farrand spoke of the meaning of commencement. Special awards were presented by Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Johnson and Principal Mr. Joseph Bialy. School Committee Chair, Mrs. Victoria Salce distributed diplomas to the students toward the end of commencement. Caps were thrown into the air and a feeling of accomplishment could be felt.

Colophon

In the production of this 1987 Southbridge High yearbook, many changes were undergone to renovate our past yearbooks which were beginning to seem "old hat." Under a brand new yearbook company Herff Jones Associates and under the leadership of our advisor Ms. Loconto, we were able to use our creativity and imagination to mold the Masterpiece that this book has become. There were many setbacks during its production, but we learned that if we pulled together as a staff, we could overcome any obstacles that stood in our way.

At this time the editors would like to thank all of those people who participated in the yearbook to make it the work of art it is.
